

In 2024, the Port Chester Historical Society's Board of Directors adopted the Diversity and Inclusion Statement below after reviewing the standards and practices of other societies, museums, and cultural institutions.

The Port Chester Historical Society has been newly revived after years of decline; as we build back, we are changing our policies to reflect the times. We are located in a diverse community which we want to engage and serve. We strive to create an environment where different voices and perspectives are valued because they can improve and enrich our work; our definition of diversity is broad. History has frequently excluded some groups and underrepresented others; we work towards addressing all barriers to full inclusion as we find them. Our programs and events are put together with an eye to both respecting the traditions, experiences, and heritages of our community and presenting the story of our community's history in diverse and inclusive ways.
